IT IS IMPORTED FROM THE MIDDLE EAST WHICH IS WHERE THE ORIGINAL POMEGRANATES COME FROM. LEGEND SAYS THAT THE 613 SEEDS IN THE POMEGRANATE MATCH UP WITH THE 613 COMMANDMENTS; ONE OF THOSE COMMANDMENTS MAY BE THE COMMANDMENT TO DRINK POMEGRANATE JUICE BUT THANKFULLY THERE ARE LESS SEEDS IN A POMEGRANATE THAN THE NUMBER OF 'LISTED CHEMICALS' IN CALIFORNIA'S PROPOSITION 65 SO WHILE THIS MAY NOT BE THE DRINK FOR DESPERATE ATTORNEYS IT IS THE PERFECT BEVERAGE FOR EVERYONE ELSE! Sucralose - "Splenda" is a common brand of this non-caloric sweetener made from sugar. A lot of movie stars like it; that means that YOU will, too!
Aspartame - "NutraSweet" is the most common brand of this synthetic sweetener. Discovered as a by-product of an ulcer medication, it was approved in 1983.

Stevia - A naturally sweet, non-caloric herb. It is found primarily in natural food stores and dietary supplements in America, but is one of the most popular non-caloric sweeteners in the rest of the world.

"Take a look at this! This whole empire started in a backpack!"... that's what an old high school friend of Real Soda's founder Danny Ginsburg said when he visited the central warehouse with his wife and baby recently. And in fact -- what is today perhaps unquestionably the most substantial purveyor of glass-bottled soft drinks in the USA had its origins with a bottle cap collection, a dream, and a desire and drive of immense proportions which all synergized to create the magic which is REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES, in defiance of all of the relentless attempts of the Megacorporations to reduce beverage consumption to an uninteresting mediocre array of cans & plastic!

"Real Soda" is essentially a name that was coined by original partakers. The concept of Real Soda was conceived in the 1980's by Danny Ginsburg who had been collecting bottle caps since the age of four, unwilling to accept the invasion of cans and plastic to the detriment of all the great sodas that had once been available.

While in the 70's Danny was a kid having to hunt around for whatever stores still sold bottles before REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES was a business entity, the backpack was in fact the means of delivery when Danny was a high school student and had started buying sodas in glass returnable bottles in other cities so that he could keep adding to his bottle cap collection at a time when Los Angeles bottlers had discontinued virtually everything in glass. He started by bringing a few bottles along for his own consumption and soon had an entourage of friends and acquaintances who asked him to provide them with these "old-fashioned" sodas to the extent that the backpack would often be filled with a dozen 16oz returnable bottles and the books had to be carried by hand! By his 16th birthday he got his driver's license just in time to buy the last four cases of Diet Pepsi being sold in L.A. Then he started driving to other cities where bottled sodas were still available, and he would bring them back to his house for his personal consumption. Because he desired at least 100 bottle caps from each design, he found himself buying more than he could drink and at the same time, people would notice him drinking from bottles and would ask him if he could get them their favorite brands, which he was only too happy to do (if they'd pay him back and give him the empty bottles and bottle caps back!!).

The procurement of interesting sodas was always in the forefront and the garage at his home served as a "warehouse" of sorts. Danny was often hired by people at school and later at the university to serve beverages at functions and to provide them to carnivals; the caveat was always that the empty bottles and bottle caps had to go back with Danny. Initially people thought all of this to be an odd and quirky thing and in fact that their purchases were just "a favor for Danny".

Soon these folks became a sort of "cargo cult" as virtually every weekend became a soda-shopping trip. After graduating from high school and working for a property management company, Danny would bring bottles of soda to work and one time a diabetic pool contractor noticed Danny drinking a Diet Coke in the contour glass returnable bottle. "Where did you get that; I've only seen it like that on TV", exclaimed the contractor to which Danny mentioned some cities about 400 miles away. Needless to say, this guy and his friends started giving Danny lists of sodas to procure and as this contractor was one of those people who always had a bunch of people hanging around his residence, would always exclaim upon seeing me arrive at the door "Hey Look! It's Real Soda, in Real Bottles!!". So when it was time to get a business license, the idea was... why not call it what it is?

Toward the end of Danny's university days there were businesses asking him for products and it became evident that this was getting too big not to be an actual business entity; it had grown way beyond people just ordering as a favor to Danny. So then along came the unforgettable year of 1991 when Danny got a business license from the City Of Rancho Palos Verdes, California. The corporation Real Soda In Real Bottles, Ltd. was formed the following year; shortly later Danny registered "Real Soda" as a trademark.

We all hear about businesses that originated in a Volkswagen Van, and REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES is no exception. The original delivery vehicle was exactly that; a Volkswagen Van with a Lenin-head gearshift. There were days that Danny managed to cram 120 cases into that van and get the drinks to the customers on time. Soon the business expanded to where it was necessary to get a larger van, and using the garage at home (and the living room and hallways) as a warehouse was just no longer feasible. So a garage was rented behind a wax company in Long Beach, CA where a 1953 manual-shift Towmotor forklift was part of the deal. Less than a year following this, REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES had added on a bunch of brands from companies who had not formerly had a distributor in Los Angeles and it was necessary to move to a 6400sqft warehouse in Torrance, CA in 1993. By then REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES was in all of the hip coffeehouses in L.A. and delivering to movie studios and the homes of Hollywood actors; also small soda sections were starting to pop up in specialty grocery stores under the care of REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES. Now a massive warehouse just east of LAX houses the amalgamation of the best sodas anywhere!

When the Torrance warehouse was first set up, the complete inventory was able to be stored against the back and side walls. Having the extra space was just another excuse to now stock more variety and Danny used his contacts from his days of sending letters to bottling companies all over the world to obtain bottle caps to see which of these companies were still making interesting beverages. He set up a truck to go across country and get an initial batch from North and South Carolina, Kentucky, and Louisiana; these sodas really took off and started finally forming what was a unique collection of drinks that were not easily procured by the competition. As much fun as soda has always been to Danny, the realities of the beverage industry: cutthroat competition and using the "steppan distributors" as stepping-stones was (and still is) rampant. Perhaps the saving grace for REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES was that the logistics of procuring these obscure brands were complex and the typical distributors of soft drinks were heretofore the major "big Three" (Coke/Pepsi/7up) for the common brands and beer, wine, and foodservice distributors for the sparse variety of specialty beverages available at that time. None of the competition was very knowledgeable about most of the beverages offered by REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES, and they were even less enthusiastic. Their chuckling at what Real Soda was doing in the marketplace actually kept them out of the way in the case of genuine specialty drinks and independent retailers' disdain for the establishment in the beverage industry coupled with their excitement over the aesthetics and quality of REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES were the synergy that enabled Real Soda to build its foundation. The workload became so intense that Danny could no longer do it on his own and thus a recommendation of a friend produced the appearance of John the Driver Emeritus, now a Real Soda Icon; certainly a chauffeur par excellence and loved by Real Soda's diverse L.A. clientele. He is known as "The Unknown Dred" but well-known in fact as he has his own beverage with his picture on the label!

Once REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES was going strong in Los Angeles, word-of-mouth requests removed the need for "cold-calling". Because REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES had no official salesman, people would often see bottled products and call the phone numbers on the bottles to find out who all of the distributors were so they could order these drinks for their place. Usually all of these calls led them straight to REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES and when they heard the name, they'd place their initial order right over the phone. Among the people calling to get started were people in other cities and sometimes in other states. Initially Danny would load up the van and drive these orders out to the "out-of-towners" especially if there was something that could be procured for the return trip to L.A. Some people ordered mixed pallets which had to be released to trucking companies and shipped. But what finally occurred is that people from neighboring cities started to appear, desirous of being "sub-distributors" of Real Soda's products in their own locales. Hence the first "sodaphiliates" appeared on the scene in California and then in neighboring states; now there are a couple dozen 'sodaphiliates' and sub-distributors, primarily in the West.

The expansion into other cities increased the volume of REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES so much that it was necessary to move into a much bigger warehouse; now the Real Soda warehouse consists of 10 times the space once in that "big" initial one. In addition to having the most impressive amalgamation of specialty glass-bottled sodas anywhere, REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES started making its own beverages along with beverages under license. This started mainly due to the lack of availability of beverages Danny felt REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES needed to have; the manufacturers of these beverages often were shipping the concentrate to foreign countries but had lost their business in the USA due to consolidation of the major brand owners and bottlers. Conveniently, this gave birth to the opportunity for Danny to "experiment" with some of the beverages he had always dreamed of making. Perhaps the most successful of these "experiments" is the LENINADE whose label he had drawn initially as a joke in his Russian language class in 1987.

It is often said that imitation is the highest form of flattery and in fact REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES enjoys such flattery. People dabbling with some products sold by but not exclusive to REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES claim to be the originators of this concept, but it would be hard for them to provide anything comparable to the photographs and newspaper articles which chronicle REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES' origins since the early 1980's. REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES' specialty beverage sections are becoming more a part of the mainstream, and this is what was Danny's dream in the beginning; a mission statement even if not initially stated – that Americans should be able to go to any supermarket, corner store, or other place that sells soda and be able to find there, a wide variety of delicious beverages in glass bottles. This is what REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES is providing for America and whenever there is no "sodaphiliate" or "sub-distributor" in an area, a store that wants to stock up on great products and make delicious beverages in glass bottles available to their clientele can have us ship them what they need. While some glass-bottled sodas are sold in many places nowadays (thankfully!), nothing matches the variety of aesthetic, delicious sodas that REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES offers; and the knowledge, enthusiasm, and genuine history that blend so well to make REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES so special is what enhances our lives.

One other thing enabling REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES' success is that the whole concept of offering this great variety to the marketplace has been built with the understanding that everyone from manufacturer to distributor to retailer deserves to earn a margin which sufficiently rewards them for their efforts. While this may seem like a justification for higher prices, consider this: Because the margins do not choke people into considering lessened quality and aesthetics as is the case with so much of the rest of the beverage industry, the financial reward for providing this wonder of effervescence excellence to the otherwise deprived populace is such that it fuels the enthusiasm which drives all involved to build and expand their offerings of delicious beverages in glass bottles. The price structure of these beverages is superseded by the quality and pleasure these beverages bring to people because it is only in this manner that the demand has been such that REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES could grow and spread as it has. In other words, REAL SODA IN REAL BOTTLES represents a variety of beverages which are in a sense a "bargain" in that they are so superior to those that cost less that they are well worth any extra expenditure. The proliferation of overpriced thimble-can energy drinks, pricy plastic punch & name-brand tap water which costs more than water from the tap... merely reveals the true value of a Real Soda in a Real Bottle!

PROPOSITION 65 WARNING: Some beverages, bottles, caps, cartons, carriers, and other related items may contain some of the "listed chemicals" which are governed by California's "Proposition 65". Most particularly, some of these things may contain lead and/or cadmium which are known to the State of California to cause birth defects and/or reproductive harm. Our opinion & suggestion: If you're in the State Of California, do business with any California entity, or suspect that any of your dealings may involve even an indirect connection to the State Of California... be advised to post warnings that may be required as a result of "Proposition 65" as we cannot assume the responsibility for your legal misfortunes.

ATTENTION ATTORNEYS ETC: THE FOLLOWING IS OUR OPINION AND NOT NECESSARILY THE OPINION OF OTHERS (ALTHOUGH WE THINK IT SHOULD BE) :

For those who may be unaware, "Proposition 65" which was passed by California voters in 1986 is the so-called "Clean Water Proposition". It has within it a provision for 'citizen enforcement'. It is conceivable that one could claim that this 'clean water proposition' is 'tainted' in that among its enforcers are what some people would call 'professional sue-ers'. Please be advised that these 'persons' who could be described as 'enforcers' or 'bounty hunters', 'phantom plaintiffs' or otherwise depending on one's perspective... have a history of searching for unaware purveyors of products that may contain some of the 'listed chemicals'. Thus if you are involved in any capacity with any product which you suspect could contain some amount of any of the 'listed chemicals' you run a serious risk of falling victim to the nefarious activities of these 'enforcers' and their attorneys. The type of attorneys who work with these 'enforcers' and tend to specialize in what may appear to be copy/paste lawsuits are sometimes called "trial lawyers" even though a more accurate description would most likely be "settlement lawyers" and it is not typical that such attorneys will warn you of a violation in advance of either suing you or asking you to pay them a settlement. So start posting those signs; this action is analogous to putting the lamb's blood on the door or holding the cross up to the vampire. And in the future do not ever vote for anything you have neither read nor fully understood! Check out Tom Lehrer's song "The Elements" and consider that the 'Listed Chemicals' of Proposition 65 numbers approximately nine times as much!
